Subject: CIC Weekly Item Submitted Re 2/12/19, Navy STAR Workshop - FYI Only

Hunters Point Naval Shipyard Superfund Site (San Francisco, CA): On February 12th, Community Involvement Coordinator Jackie Lane and Community Involvement Section Chief David Yogi participated in a U.S. Navy-hosted workshop for the members of STAR-Shipyard Trust for the Arts, a group of artists who lease space through the City of San Francisco (SF) on the shipyard base. The purpose of the availability session, held at the restaurant “Tato” in the Bayview neighborhood of San Francisco, was to help answer questions and concerns the group have about the Navy’s investigations on questionable radiation data, its plan to begin resampling on Parcel G, the recent released report of the CA Department of Public Health’s radiation survey of the former Parcel A property, and to find out the schedule for the City to restart its construction of STAR’s new artists building on Parcel A. About 35 artists attended along with representatives from the SF Public Health Department and the SF Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure who assisted in answering questions.
